1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 The Court should deny the Motion to Intervene. The Motion is untimely, seeks uncertain 3 and improper relief, and is premised on misinterpretations of law. The only effect of granting the 4 relief Movants seek will be further delay of force-placed insurance litigation against Wells Fargo 5 Bank, N.A. for no purpose other than to secure control of a small fraction of the litigation (the 6 force-placed flood insurance claims) for Movants' counsel.¹

7 Plaintiffs in Morris v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., Case No. 2:11-cv-00474 (W.D. Pa.) and 8 McKenzie v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., Case No. 3:11-cv-04965 (N.D. Cal.)(collectively 9 "Movants") argue that they seek to intervene to protect their interests from "inadequate counsel." 10 It is unclear what relief Movants seek. They variously ask to ensure the protection of their 11 undefined interests, postpone a class certification ruling so they can develop a "more complete" 12 factual record by submitting a "supplemental memorandum," correct certain misstatements in 13 Plaintiffs' motion for class certification, consolidate this case with McKenzie, or stay a ruling on 14 Plaintiffs' motion for class certification indefinitely.² The motion appears to be an attempt to 15 delay this litigation so Movants' counsel can advance their flood insurance claims in McKenzie.
16 Delay is not the purpose of Fed. R. of Civ. P. 24 or the First-Filed Rule.

17 Additionally, rather than address the factors under Rule 24, the Motion fixates on 18 arguments ad hominem against Plaintiffs' attorneys in an attempt to direct attention away from 19 the relevant issues—adequacy of the named Plaintiffs to represent the Class and Movants—to 20 issues that are irrelevant—whether Plaintiffs' attorneys are "as adequate" as Movants' attorneys.

21 The timing of the Motion to Intervene is also troubling. Movants delayed filing their 22 motion until after Plaintiffs filed their motion for class certification. This motion is also not 23

24 ¹ Movants' cases are putative class actions relating only to forced-placed flood insurance. This case involves force-25 placed flood and hazard insurance. Plaintiffs' expert estimates that flood insurance makes up ten to twelve percent 26 of the total combined force-placed flood and hazard insurance market. See Decl. of Steve Owings, Exhibit 1, Second Supplemental Report of Birny Birnbaum ("Birnbaum Supp."). All numbered exhibits referenced herein refer to exhibits attached to the declaration of Steve Owings filed concurrently herewith unless otherwise noted.

27 ² Movants' request to stay this case pending a ruling on class certification in Morris would result in an indefinite 28 stay. Morris has languished in the Western District of Pennsylvania for 26 months, and no class certification motion is pending or scheduled.

1 Movants’ first attempt to gain control of Lane. Movants have been aware of this case since 2 October 2012 when they previously sought to relate this case to McKenzie. Judge Spero denied 3 the McKenzie Motion to Relate Cases. Judge Chen also declined to relate the cases in Cannon v.
 4 Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., Case No. 3:12-cv-1376 (N.D. Cal.). The Motion to Relate was denied 5 by both courts because these cases are not sufficiently similar to warrant consolidation. Movants 6 did nothing during the next seven (7) months, instead waiting until May 22, 2013—the day 7 before filing their Motion to Intervene—before they informed Plaintiffs’ counsel of their 8 intention to seek intervention. Decl. of Steve Owings, ¶ 10, Exhibit 5, Correspondence.

9 Movants’ delay is particularly significant given what they hope to accomplish. Movants 10 challenge the litigation strategy in Lane, but waited until after class certification briefing to do 11 so. They seek to add Wells Fargo Insurance, Inc. (WFI) and their own named plaintiffs as parties 12 to this litigation four months after the Court’s January 18, 2013 deadline to add parties to the 13 case. Movants knew of this deadline (and the fact that WFI was not a party to this case) before it 14 passed. But they did not act. They have not been diligent in seeking to add parties. Further, 15 Plaintiffs strongly disagree that WFI should be a party to this litigation.³

16 Movants ask that the Court delay ruling on class certification so they can submit a 17 “supplemental memorandum.”⁴ If Movants’ objective was to “help” the class and ensure the best 18 opportunity for its certification, they would have contacted Plaintiffs’ counsel and arranged to 19 work cooperatively to achieve that common goal. Movants have known of the class certification 20 filing deadline for almost six months, as the Court set the deadline on November 30, 2012.
 21 Movants did nothing until May 22, 2013, when they notified Plaintiffs of their intent to intervene 22 the day before filing 402 pages of pleadings and exhibits in support of intervention. Exhibit 5.

23 Movants’ claim that Plaintiffs’ counsel are not “as adequate” as Movants’ counsel is 24 belied by the records of each of the firms’ force-placed insurance cases. The record in McKenzie,

25 _____
 26 ³ This case is about a kickback scheme that was designed, organized and controlled by Wells Fargo Bank (WFB).
 27 WFI is only a pass through entity that is owned by WFB or its corporate parent. Adding WFI as a defendant does not 28 enhance this litigation, and Movants do not demonstrate any value in adding WFI as a defendant.

⁴ Plaintiffs thoroughly briefed all issues relevant to class certification and attached a copious record in support. Any “supplemental memorandum” would duplicate the class certification motions filed in this case and McKenzie.

1 for example, demonstrates McKenzie counsel's⁵ consistent lack of diligence. Although McKenzie
 2 was filed months before Lane, the plaintiffs did not adequately plead any kickback or backdating 3 claim.⁶ As such, Judge Spero dismissed the case in its entirety on September 7, 2012 with leave 4 to allege kickback claims. McKenzie did not allege kickback claims until November 29, 2012, 5 almost four months after Plaintiffs filed Lane. McKenzie's claim to "first filed California case" 6 status evaporates under close scrutiny of the record in McKenzie. The record in McKenzie
 7 implies that McKenzie counsel did not conduct any class discovery. This explains why McKenzie
 8 counsel imported the Morris discovery on April 22, 2013. The McKenzie motion for class 9 certification references only documents and deposition testimony obtained in Morris, a handful 10 of documents specific to each of the named plaintiffs, and expert reports.

11 Finally, the most important reason why Movants' motion should be denied is that there is 12 minimal overlap between this case and Movants' cases. The Lane Plaintiffs allege claims 13 regarding both force-placed flood insurance and hazard insurance. Morris and McKenzie allege 14 claims relating only to force-placed flood insurance. Movants have no standing to intervene with 15 respect to the Lanes' force-placed hazard insurance claims. Force-placed flood insurance 16 represents only ten to twelve percent of all force-placed insurance. Exhibit 1, Birnbaum Supp. § 17 2. Putting the hazard insurance case on hold for "supplemental briefing" on certification of the 18 flood insurance issues serves no legitimate purpose.

19 II. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

20 A. *Lane v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A.

21 Plaintiffs filed this case on July 31, 2012, (Dkt. No. 1), alleging three theories of liability:
 22 kickbacks, backdating, and excessive insurance requirements. On November 30, 2012, the Court 23 entered a Case Management Order, to which Plaintiffs have strictly adhered. On January 24, 24 2013, the Court denied Wells Fargo's Motion to Dismiss, (Dkt. No. 45), with respect to kickback

25 _____
 26 ⁵ "Morris counsel" refers to the Nichols Kaster firm that originally litigated Morris. "McKenzie counsel" refers to 27 Feazell & Tighe, L.L.P., Taus, Cebulash & Landau, LLP, Kabateck Kellner LLP, and Berger Montague, P.C., which 28 initially litigated McKenzie. In April 2013, some of the McKenzie attorneys entered appearances in Morris, and one of the Morris attorneys entered an appearance in McKenzie. Morris Dkt. Nos. 141, 145; McKenzie Dkt. No. 104.

⁶ Initially, McKenzie was a purely "excess insurance" case with only conclusory allegations regarding kickbacks.

1 claims, granted Plaintiffs leave to amend their backdating allegations, dismissed all “excess 2 insurance” claims, and dismissed California law claims. (Dkt. No. 70). The Court granted leave 3 to file an amended complaint, wherein Plaintiffs alleged five causes of action: violations of the 4 Bank Holding Company Act (BHCA) and California Unfair Competition Law (UCL), breach of 5 contract and the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, unjust enrichment, and 6 conversion. (Dkt. No. 83). All claims survived a second motion to dismiss. (Dkt. No. 90).

7 The parties have diligently and expeditiously conducted discovery. After Plaintiffs raised 8 discovery disputes with the Court, (Dkt. No. 60), and received a favorable ruling, (Dkt. Nos. 69, 9 72), Wells Fargo immediately produced over 300,000 pages of documents on February 8, 2013.
10 To date, Wells Fargo has produced a total of 331,781 pages of documents in discovery. Decl. of 11 Steve Owings, ¶ 13. Plaintiffs simultaneously took depositions of corporate representatives for 12 Wells Fargo, ASIC, and QBE. Although Plaintiffs deposed Wells Fargo’s representative, 13 Thomas Farrell, just one week after Wells Fargo’s document production, Plaintiffs’ counsel were 14 able to quickly identify relevant documents due to their past experience in similar LPI litigation 15 against Wells Fargo.⁷ Decl. of Steve Owings, ¶ 2. Mr. Farrell provided information necessary to 16 prove commonality, typicality, adequacy, predominance, and superiority.⁸ Plaintiffs then served 17 subpoenas on QBE and ASIC and received 5,166 pages of documents in response. Decl. of Steve 18 Owings, ¶ 13. Plaintiffs reviewed these documents and took depositions of QBE’s and ASIC’s 19 representatives on May 1, 2013 and May 3, 2013, respectively, uncovering additional facts 20 supporting class certification. Id.

21 Lane Plaintiffs’ counsel have diligently prosecuted this case. Their record in this case 22 demonstrates diligence in meeting deadlines, expeditiousness in discovery, and effective 23 representation of the interests of the proposed classes. Plaintiffs’ counsel have extensive 24 experience litigating nationwide class actions against large financial institutions, including

25 _____
26 ⁷ Plaintiffs’ later asked for all deposition transcripts and documents produced in Sayago v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., 27 Case No. 8:11-cv-02009 (M.D. Fla.). This included thousands of pages of documents and an additional deposition 28 transcript, which Plaintiffs’ counsel had already reviewed because they are counsel for plaintiffs in Sayago.

⁸ He further revealed that ASIC and QBE would be able to provide further information relating to adequacy, typicality, numerosity, and the other class certification elements.

1 numerous cases alleging kickback schemes in connection with force-placed insurance. Decl. of 2 Steve Owings, ¶ 2. Currently, Plaintiffs' counsel are also counsel of record in three other cases 3 against Wells Fargo relating to force-placed hazard, flood, and wind insurance.⁹ Id.

4 B. *McKenzie v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A.

5 Clifford McKenzie, a Texas resident, filed his complaint against Wells Fargo Home 6 Mortgage, Inc., Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., Wells Fargo & Company, and Does 1 through 10 on 7 October 7, 2011, alleging breach of contract and violations of the Truth in Lending Act (TILA) 8 relating to Wells Fargo's excessive insurance requirements. Decl. of Steve Owings, Exhibit 2, 9 McKenzie Docket ("McKenzie Dkt.") No. 1. After two (2) amended complaints, and four (4) 10 additional plaintiffs, the parties filed a joint case management statement on May 4, 2012, seven 11 months after filing the complaint. McKenzie Dkt. No. 30. On October 30, 2012, a full year after 12 the original complaint, Judge Spero dismissed the second amended complaint, but granted 13 plaintiffs leave to file an amended complaint regarding kickback claims, stating that "the 14 allegations in Plaintiffs' SAC regarding Defendants' alleged scheme consist of only the bare 15 conclusory factual allegations that Defendants received kickbacks." McKenzie v. Wells Fargo 16 Home Mortg., Inc., 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 155480, *60 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 30, 2012). The 17 McKenzie plaintiffs filed their Third Amended Complaint, with kickback allegations, on 18 November 29, 2012. McKenzie Dkt. No. 78. Judge Spero partially dismissed the TAC for re-19 alleging the excess insurance theory on March 14, 2013. McKenzie Dkt. No. 96. The TAC 20 alleges only state law claims, under the laws of the Plaintiffs' states of residence. McKenzie Dkt.
 21 No. 78.¹⁰

22 Based on the McKenzie docket, the McKenzie motion for class certification, and the 23 motion to intervene, it appears that the McKenzie plaintiffs have not conducted any discovery.
 24 There is no evidence that counsel for McKenzie served interrogatories or requests for production 25

26 ⁹ Sayago v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., Case No. 8:11-cv-2009 (M.D. Fla.); Fladell v. Wells Fargo, Case No. 0:13-CV-27 60721 (S.D. Fla.); and Cannon v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., Case No. 3:12-cv-1376 (N.D. Cal.).

28 ¹⁰ As of May 31, 2013, when the McKenzie plaintiffs filed their motion for class certification, it appears that the only remaining plaintiffs are Clifford McKenzie and Daniel Biddix, both residents of Texas. McKenzie Dkt. No. 139.

1 of documents relating to class issues, nor any evidence that a single deposition of any defendant
 2 was taken in McKenzie. Facing class certification deadlines, McKenzie counsel hurriedly 3 associated Morris counsel to work with them on the case. On April 19, 2013—twenty (20) days 4 before the Lane class certification deadline and forty-two (42) days before the McKenzie class 5 certification deadline—the parties entered a stipulation whereby McKenzie plaintiffs could use a 6 portion of the discovery obtained in Morris.¹¹ McKenzie Dkt. No. 119, 121.

7 The McKenzie plaintiffs filed their motion for class certification on May 31, 2013, 8 McKenzie Dkt. No. 139, attaching eight (8) declarations and approximately sixty-nine (69) 9 substantive exhibits. Many of these exhibits were filed under seal and are not identified by name, 10 but each was obtained in discovery in Morris or is a publicly available document.¹² McKenzie 11 Dkt. No. 143 ¶¶ 1–49. The only documents actually obtained in McKenzie relate to the named 12 plaintiffs. McKenzie Dkt. Nos. 140, 141. If McKenzie counsel obtained any class documents in 13 discovery, they did not use them for their class certification motion.

14 C. *Morris v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A.

15 Desiree Morris, a Pennsylvania resident, filed her case on April 7, 2011, alleging that 16 Wells Fargo required excessive insurance, and vaguely alleging that Wells Fargo also received 17 “kickbacks” or “commissions.” Decl. of Steve Owings, Exhibit 3, Morris Docket (“Morris 18 Dkt.”) No. 1. The Court entered its initial scheduling order and the parties began mediation on 19 August 1, 2011. Morris Dkt. Nos. 31–33. The plaintiff filed a motion for leave to file an 20 amended complaint on November 14, 2011, while the motion to dismiss was still pending.
 21 Morris Dkt. No. 42. On September 7, 2012,¹³ the court entered an order granting in part and 22

23 ¹¹ The stipulation prohibits McKenzie from using any Morris documents relating to the “excess insurance” theory, 24 which was dismissed in McKenzie. This likely represents a large portion of the Morris discovery.

25 ¹² Exhibits 1 to 43 to Mr. Richter’s declaration contains a “Morris” Bates number or are described as obtained in 26 Morris. Exhibit 43-49 are publicly available documents. Several other exhibits—specifically Art Olsen’s past expert reports attached to Art Olsen’s expert report—were from the Hofstetter litigation. The only remaining exhibits were firm resumes and documents specific to the named plaintiffs. McKenzie Dkt. Nos. 140-141, 144-147.

27 ¹³ During the seventeen (17) month period between the original complaint and the court’s first—and only—28 substantive order, the parties attempted mediation, filed numerous requests for extensions and modifications of the scheduling order, and engaged in a discovery dispute. Morris Dkt. Nos. 13, 32-33, 48, 51, 55, 69, 76, 80.

1 denying in part Wells Fargo’s motion to dismiss, dismissing all but one claim against WFI 2 (unjust enrichment survived), and several claims against WFB (violations of TILA and breach of 3 contract survived). Morris v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 127487 (W.D. Pa.
4 Sept. 7, 2012). The Morris plaintiff filed a motion for class certification on September 19, 2012.
5 Morris Dkt. No. 103. The Court denied the motion two days later and stated that the plaintiff 6 could file a new motion for class certification after a status hearing. Morris Dkt. No. 110.
7 Currently, the Morris case has motions for judgment on the pleadings under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(c) 8 and an interlocutory appeal related to the “excess insurance” theory pending. Morris Dkt. Nos.
9 114–119.

10 The only claims remaining in Morris at this time are TILA and breach of contract claims 11 against WFB and an unjust enrichment claim against WFI. The TILA claim is predicated wholly 12 on the “excess insurance” theory of liability, which is the subject of Wells Fargo’s requested 13 interlocutory appeal. Morris Dkt. Nos. 46, 118. The original breach of contract claim involved 14 only the “excess insurance” theory as well. Dkt. No. 46. Although the Court’s order dismissing 15 the amended complaint in part allowed the plaintiff to pursue her implied covenant of good faith 16 and fair dealing claim,¹⁴ which referenced kickbacks, it is unclear whether Morris even includes 17 a kickback claim against WFB, or if this claim is only asserted against WFI.

18 Throughout the course of the Morris litigation, Morris counsel has either actively agreed 19 to or acquiesced to delaying the case. The case has been pending for over two years, and the 20 plaintiff has no class certification motion even pending, much less a certified class. Morris 21 counsel filed two separate joint motions or stipulations to extend time to file their class 22 certification motion. Morris Dkt. Nos. 48, 69. Although Plaintiffs acknowledge that this may be 23 partially due to Wells Fargo’s obstructionist tactics,¹⁵ nothing justifies a two year delay in filing 24 a motion for class certification. Morris counsel filed their first motion to compel discovery on 25 June 5, 2012, more than a year after filing the case. Morris Dkt. No. 76. Based on the publicly-

27 ¹⁴ The Court allowed Morris to pursue her implied covenant claim as part of the breach of contract claim.

28 ¹⁵ Plaintiffs have dealt with the same tactics in this case.

1 available docket information, the only thing keeping the Morris plaintiff from filing a motion for 2 class certification is a status conference. Morris Dkt. No. 110. Despite Morris counsel's 3 complaint that Wells Fargo will not agree to a status conference, in the eight and a half months 4 since the court denied the original class certification motion, Morris counsel has not moved once 5 to set the requested status conference.

6 D. Differences Among Lane, McKenzie, and *Morris

7 There is no significant overlap between this case and Morris or McKenzie. Each case 8 involves Wells Fargo and force-placed insurance, but the overlap ends there. This case 9 challenges Wells Fargo's kickback scheme and backdating of force-placed hazard and flood 10 insurance. Morris and McKenzie are exclusively force-placed flood insurance cases; Morris 11 centers on "excess insurance" claims which are not present here. Judge Chen, in Cannon v. Wells 12 Fargo Bank, N.A., Case No. 3:12-cv-01376, and Judge Spero, in McKenzie, both found that 13 Lane, McKenzie, and Cannon (also a flood insurance case) were not related to one another.¹⁶

14 While Wells Fargo's scheme does not differ by type of insurance (hazard vs. flood), the 15 Morris and McKenzie flood insurance plaintiffs do not have standing to represent hazard 16 insurance class members. Morris and McKenzie do not even seek relief on behalf of individuals 17 force-placed into hazard insurance, nor could they have standing to do so. Force-placed flood 18 insurance only accounts for ten to twelve percent of all force-placed insurance. Exhibit 1, 19 Birnbaum Supp. § 2. While the proposed classes in Lane may engulf the proposed classes in 20 McKenzie and one of the classes alleged in Morris, none of the proposed classes in Morris or 21 McKenzie would protect more than ten to twelve percent of the proposed classes in Lane.¹⁷

22 The cases all differ by causes of action as well. Only Lane seeks certification of any 23 unifying federal claim for Wells Fargo's kickbacks. The Lane Plaintiffs seek certification of a

24 _____
 25 ¹⁶ Movants incorrectly assert that the motion to relate cases was denied because Plaintiffs refused to submit to 26 magistrate jurisdiction. Although Plaintiffs requested that Judge Chen determine whether the cases were related 27 because the parties in Lane and Cannon had not submitted to magistrate jurisdiction, Wells Fargo objected to relating the cases because Cannon and Lane involved kickbacks, whereas McKenzie did not. Judge Chen reviewed the complaints and determined, on substantive grounds, that the cases were not related. Cannon Dkt. No. 74.

28 ¹⁷ Morris is primarily an excessive insurance case. These excess insurance claims are currently holding up the Morris litigation. Delaying this litigation while Morris litigates claims already resolved by this Court is improper.

1 national class for violation of the BHCA and breach of contract, as well as California and 2 Arkansas sub-classes for unjust enrichment, conversion, and violation of the California UCL.
3 The BHCA also entitles all class members to treble damages, and the BHCA and UCL claims 4 address the anti-competitive effects of Wells Fargo's practices. Thus, Lane is fundamentally 5 different from Movants' cases. Two Texas plaintiffs in McKenzie seek certification of breach of 6 contract, unjust enrichment, and conversion claims for Wells Fargo's kickbacks nationally and a 7 tortious interference claim on behalf of a Texas sub-class. McKenzie Dkt. No. 139. The class 8 claims in Morris are unclear at this time, but presumably plaintiff seeks certification of TILA and 9 breach of contract claims against WFB nationally in connection with excess insurance claims, 10 and unjust enrichment claims against WFI (and maybe an implied covenant claim against WFB) 11 for kickbacks. Furthermore, the Texas and Pennsylvania residents in Movants' cases cannot 12 represent the Lane Plaintiffs' California and Arkansas sub-classes.

13 E. The MDL Petition

14 One day after filing the Motion to Intervene in this case, Movants' counsel Shannon 15 Carson and Patrick Madden filed a petition with the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation 16 (JPML) to transfer and consolidate this case with a case pending in the Southern District of 17 Illinois. Decl. of Steve Owings, ¶ 8, Exhibit 4, MDL Petition. It is no accident that this petition 18 was filed shortly after Plaintiffs filed their motion for class certification in Lane. Movants' 19 counsel seek to delay a class certification ruling in this Court, while securing a transfer of the 20 majority of this case to the Southern District of Illinois. The JPML petition states that it only 21 seeks to transfer the Lanes' hazard insurance claims involving Assurant into the proposed MDL.
22 Exhibit 4, p. 13. To be clear, Movants seek to indefinitely stay Lane class certification briefing, 23 transfer all of the Lane hazard claims to Illinois, and retain the flood claims for adjudication in 24 this district—with Movants' counsel appointed class, or co-lead, counsel, of course. It is difficult 25 to understand how this gamesmanship could possibly be construed as beneficial to the class.

26 F. The Comparative Adequacy of Counsel

27 Rather than address the adequacy of the parties, which is the relevant consideration on a 28

1 motion to intervene, Movants’ counsel direct a series of ad hominem attacks at Plaintiffs’ 2 counsel and argue that Movants’ counsel are “more adequate” than Plaintiffs’ counsel. This is 3 irrelevant to the motion to intervene. However, Plaintiffs’ counsel obtained and reviewed 4 331,781 pages of documents before filing their class certification motion. They took three 5 depositions in this case, plus a fourth in Sayago, the transcript of which was produced in this 6 case. Decl. of Steve Owings, ¶ 13. They have carefully crafted their claims to the evidence that 7 they have obtained in discovery and moved this case forward in a timely manner, according to 8 the Court’s scheduling order.

9 In contrast, McKenzie and Morris counsel have allowed their cases to go stale. The only 10 evidence submitted for the adequacy of Berger & Montague, P.C., counsel in McKenzie, is a 11 recent settlement in the JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A. force-placed flood insurance litigation. The 12 most recent development in that settlement occurred when the parties filed a notice in Scheetz v.
 13 JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A., Case No. 12-cv-4113 (S.D.N.Y.), notifying the court that they had 14 reached a settlement in private mediation, but had not yet chosen a Court in which to file the 15 settlement papers. Decl. of Steve Owings, ¶ 15, Exhibit 7, Scheetz Dkt. No. 39. In Morris, since 16 the Court sua sponte denied the first motion for class certification on September 21, 2012, 17 Morris counsel has failed to set the status conference that would enable them to file a renewed 18 motion for class certification. Movants’ counsel have also filed numerous motions to stay 19 pending mediation before seeking class certification. Decl. of Steve Owings, ¶ 16.¹⁸ While 20 Morris counsel may have developed a thorough record in Morris and achieved a good recovery 21 for the class in Hofstetter, their track record in cases against Wells Fargo does not indicate they 22 are “more adequate” than Plaintiffs’ counsel.

23 G. Plaintiffs’ Counsel’s Motion to Intervene in *Hofstetter

24 Movants argue or imply that Lane counsel are somehow inadequate because they sought 25 to intervene in the Hofstetter case. In that case, the settlement stated that it released all claims or 26 causes of action asserted in the Second Amended Complaint, which could be construed to 27 _____

 28 ¹⁸ In fact, Movants counsel have not filed a single class certification motion in any of the numerous force-placed insurance cases they tout in their motion since Hofstetter, excluding the immediately denied motion in Morris. Id.

1 broaden the scope of the settlement beyond just the causes of action pled in the complaint.¹⁹ 2 (Dkt. No. 104, Decl. of Kai Richter, Ex. 10, p. 7). This would, of course, directly contravene the 3 Court’s “Notice Regarding Factors to Be Evaluated for Any Proposed Class Settlement” issued 4 in this case. (Dkt. No. 39)(“The release should be limited only to the claims certified for class 5 treatment.”) Plaintiffs’ counsel sought to intervene to determine whether the scope of that release 6 included claims alleged in Gibson v. Chase Home Finance, LLC, Case. No. 8:11-cv-1302 (M.D.
 7 Fla.). (Dkt. No. 104, Decl. of Kai Richter, Ex. 10, p. 7). At the final fairness hearing, both 8 defendants’ and plaintiffs’ counsel in Hofstetter affirmed, on the record, that the release did not 9 encompass Plaintiffs’ claims. Id. at pp. 9, 15. This was, for the most part, exactly the result 10 counsel sought for their client, and it is hard to see how this detracts from their adequacy in this 11 case.

12 III. ARGUMENT

13 A. Movants’ Wrongfully Premise Their Intervention Arguments on the First- 14 Filed Rule.

15 Movants seek to sway the Court on the intervention issue by claiming “first-filed” status.
 16 Intervention is not a remedy under the first-filed rule. Instead, “under the first-to-file rule, a 17 district court may—at its discretion—transfer, stay, or dismiss an action when a similar action 18 has been filed in another district court.” Dubee v. P.F. Chang’s China Bistro, Inc., 2010 WL 19 3323808 (N.D. Cal. 2010)(citing Alltrade, Inc. v. Uniweld Prods., Inc., 946 F.2d 622, 625–26 20 (9th Cir. 1991)). Allowing intervention under the first-filed rule would promote forum-21 shopping—it would allow the first-filed plaintiff to choose between moving forward in the 22 original jurisdiction and seeking to intervene in a later-filed case, like Movants try to do here.
 23 When forum-shopping is involved, courts do not grant relief based on the first-filed rule.
 24 Alltrade, Inc., 946 F.2d at 628; see also, Section III. D, infra (further analysis of first-filed rule).

25 The Motion to Intervene is not aimed at protecting the status of earlier filed cases. If it 26 were, Movants would have sought a stay, dismissal, or transfer of this action when they became

27 _____
 28 ¹⁹ The issue was whether “claims or causes of action” included factual theories of liability arising out of the same general practice or only those specific theories and causes of action raised in the complaint.

1 aware of it. At the latest, this was October 22, 2012—when the McKenzie plaintiffs sought to 2 relate these cases.²⁰ “Whatever rights or interests Proposed Intervenors may have had in 3 enforcing a first-filed rule, those rights and interests (if any) necessarily arose the moment this 4 action was filed, and were known or should have been known to Proposed Intervenors when they 5 learned of the very existence of this lawsuit.” Lane v. Facebook, Inc., 2009 WL 3458198, at *3 6 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 23, 2009)(emphasis in original). Further, if Movants sought to protect the first-7 filed status of their earlier cases, then the Morris plaintiffs would have sought relief under the 8 first-filed rule by seeking to stay, dismiss, or transfer all of the following force-placed flood 9 insurance cases that were filed after Morris:

10 Sayago v. Wells Fargo, 8:11-cv-02009 (M.D. Fla.), filed September 2, 2011; 11 Passantino-Miller v. Wells Fargo, 2:12-cv-00420 (E.D. Cal.), filed February 17, 2012; 12 Cannon v. Wells Fargo, 4:12-cv-01376 (N.D. Cal.), filed March 19, 2012; 13 Feaz v. Wells Fargo, 1:12-cv-00350 (S.D. Ala.), filed May 24, 2012; 14 Fladdell v. Wells Fargo, 0:12-cv-61368 (S.D. Fla.), filed July 11, 2012; 15 Roberts v. Wells Fargo, 4:12-cv-00200 (S.D. Ga.), filed July 24, 2012.

16 The Morris plaintiff also did not seek first-filed relief in McKenzie, which was filed 17 October 7, 2011. Instead, the Morris and McKenzie lawyers teamed up and exported all 18 discovery from Morris into the later-filed McKenzie action. They did this in an apparent attempt 19 to escape the first-filed district (the Western District of Pennsylvania) where their case has 20 languished for twenty-six (26) months with no class certification motion pending or hearing 21 scheduled. The only first-filed arguments Movants have made anywhere are in this case in the 22 Motion to Intervene. Rather than preserve the jurisdiction of the first-filed court, at the eleventh 23 hour, Movants seek to take the helm in this case, which Plaintiffs’ counsel have diligently 24 pursued for nearly a year. Because this relief is not even available under the first-filed rule, the 25 Court should disregard Movants’ “first-filed” arguments with respect to the motion to intervene.

26 B. Movants Have No Right to Intervene

27 Rule 24(a) provides that “[o]n timely motion, the court must permit anyone to intervene 28 who . . . claims an interest relating to the property or transaction that is the subject of the action, ²⁰ Both Judge Spero and Judge Chen found that Lane and McKenzie are not related cases. Dkt Nos. 12, 20.

1 and is so situated that disposing of the action may as a practical matter impair or impede the 2 movant's ability to protect its interest, unless existing parties adequately represent that interest.”

3 Fed. R. Civ. P. 24(a)(2). As this Court recently stated:

4 [a]n applicant seeking to intervene of right in a pending lawsuit pursuant to Rule 5 24(a) must satisfy four requirements: (1) it has a significant protectable interest 6 relating to the property or transaction that is the subject of the action; (2) the 7 disposition of the action may, as a practical matter, impair or impede the 8 applicant's ability to protect its interest; (3) the application is timely; and (4) the 9 existing parties may not adequately represent the applicant's interest.

10 Golden Eagle Ins. Corp. v. Moon Marine (U.S.A.) Corp., 2013 WL 594283, at *2 (N.D. Cal.
11 Feb. 14, 2013). The Intervenors do not satisfy these requirements.

12 1. Movants Do Not Have a Significant Protectable Interest

13 The Ninth Circuit “considers the first requirement, the interest test, as a threshold 14 requirement to intervention of right.” Golden Eagle, 2013 WL 594283, at *2 (citing Fresno Cnty.
15 v. Andrus, 622 F.2d 436, 438 (9th Cir. 1980)). “Applicants for intervention have a ‘significantly 16 protectable’ interest in an action if (1) they assert an interest that is protected under some law and 17 (2) there is a relationship between the legally protected interest and the plaintiff's claims.” Ctr.
18 for Biological Diversity v. U.S. Fish & Wildlife Serv., 2005 WL 6789301, at *4 (N.D. Cal. May 19 31, 2005)(Alsup J.)(citing Nw. Forest Resource Council v. Glickman, 82 F.3d 825, 837 (9th Cir.
20 1996). ““An economic stake in the outcome of litigation, even if significant, is not enough.”” 21 Golden Eagle, 2013 WL 2013 WL 594283, at *2 (quoting Greene v. United States, 996 F.2d 22 973, 976 (9th Cir. 1993)).

23 “[A]n undifferentiated, generalized interest in the outcome of an ongoing action is too 24 porous a foundation on which to premise intervention as of right.” S. California Edison Co. v.
25 Lynch, 307 F.3d 794, 803 (9th Cir. 2002)(quoting Public Serv. Co. of N.H. v. Patch, 136 F.3d 26 197, 205 (1st Cir. 1998)). Movants appear to claim an interest in how the questions of law and 27 fact are resolved in this case because this might affect their pending case. As this Court held in a 28 similar situation, there is “no controlling authority that resolving a question of law or fact is a legally protected interest.” Golden Eagle, 2013 WL 594283, at *3. The Court also found that a 1 claim by a plaintiff in another case that the outcome of a case in this court might affect a claim 2 for damages in her case was “speculative because it ultimately depends on a jury finding 3 defendant liable and awarding her damages.” Id. at *2. “An applicant generally satisfies the 4 ‘relationship’ requirement only if the resolution of the plaintiff’s claims actually will affect the 5 applicant.” Ins. Corp. of New York, 2008 WL 2774181, at *4 (quoting Arakaki v. Cayetano, 324 6 F.3d 1078, 1084 (9th Cir. 2003)).

7 The Intervenor’s attorneys’ stated “interest” here is in representing the yet uncertified 8 classes. Specifically, Intervenor’s assert that “[b]ecause the Lane Plaintiffs have moved for 9 certification of a class that includes Movants as class members, Movants necessarily have an 10 interest as intervenors.” Mot. at 19. The cases Movants cite on this point do not support their 11 arguments.²¹ Additionally, Intervenor’s claim that “Rule 23(d)(1)(B)(iii) expressly provides for 12 intervention by putative class members” misstates the Rule. The plain language of the Rule 13 expressly applies only to class members in a certified class, not putative class members in an 14 uncertified class action. Intervening under this Rule, such as when a class representative’s claim 15 becomes moot, is appropriate “when a class has been certified.” 5 Newberg on Class Actions, § 16 2.17 (2013). In contrast, Intervenor here are like the potential intervenor in Golden Eagle, 17 whose principal complaint was the effect that a similar case may have on her case. Like in 18 Golden Eagle, Intervenor here do not have a protectable interest in “resolving a question of law 19 or fact.” See Golden Eagle, 2013 WL 594283.

20 2. Disposition of the Lane Case Will Not Impair or Impede the 21 Intervenor’s Ability to Protect Their Interests

22 Contrary to Movant’s claim, this Court’s decision on Plaintiffs’ Motion for Class 23 Certification cannot impair Movant’s interests. If this Court grants Plaintiffs’ Motion for Class

24 _____
 25 ²¹ See, e.g., United Airlines, Inc. v. McDonald, 432 U.S. 385 (1977)(permitting post-judgment intervention after 26 denial of class certification for purposes of appeal); Deposit Guar. Nat’l Bank, Jackson, Miss. v. Roper, 445 U.S.
 27 326, 330–31 (1980)(mentioning “rights of putative class members as potential intervenors” but also noting that “[a]t 28 no time has any putative class member sought to intervene.”); In re Cmty. Bank of N. Virginia, 418 F.3d 277, 314– 15 (intervention of right is not automatic and “filing of individual motions to join or to intervene was ‘precisely the multiplicity of activity which Rule 23 was designed to avoid.’”); Dickstein v. Able Telcom Holding Corp., 192 F.R.D.
 331, 334 (N.D. Ga. 2000)(intervenor were already granted lead plaintiff status in a securities class action brought under the PSLRA and the two actions were substantially identical, unlike here).

1 Certification, the Intervenor will be protected by this Court’s oversight and class counsel.
 2 Movants can also opt-out and proceed with their own cases. If the Court denies the motion for 3 class certification, the Intervenor remain free to file their own motion for class certification or 4 intervene at that time to appeal the Court’s ruling.²² At most, this Court’s decision will impede 5 Intervenor’s attorneys’ interests. See Mot. at 20 (“if the Court certifies the proposed classes, 6 Movants will be relegated to bystander status.”) This is the real purpose of Intervenor’s 7 Motion—to protect their attorneys.

8 Intervenor’s argument, that “[i]f class certification is denied in Lane . . . this may have 9 negative repercussions for Movants’ class certification motions in Morris and McKenzie,” Mot.
 10 at 20, is simply false. “Neither a proposed, nor a rejected, class action may bind nonparties.”
 11 Smith v. Bayer Corp., 131 S. Ct. 2368, 2372 (2011). In fact, the Supreme Court acknowledged 12 that the rule “permit[s] class counsel to try repeatedly to certify the same class simply by 13 changing plaintiffs.” Id. This is exactly what Magistrate Judge Spero told the McKenzie plaintiffs 14 at the Case Management Conference on May 20, 2013, when they raised these same issues in 15 that Court. See Decl. of Sheri Kelly, ¶ 4. The Intervenor’s citation to United States v. State of Or., 16 839 F.2d 635 (9th Cir. 1988), for the proposition that this Court’s decision would have stare
 17 decisis effect is misplaced. The Court in United States v. Oregon held that “[s]uch 18 determinations when upheld by an appellate ruling will have a persuasive stare decisis effect in 19 any parallel or subsequent litigation.” Id. at 638 (emphasis added). In contrast:

20 [F]ederal district courts do not follow precedents of other district courts, including 21 those in the same district This has generally been the practice of district 22 courts presiding over claim construction issues where other district courts have considered and ruled on identical or similar issues.

 26 ²² “[A]pplications for intervention filed prior to the court’s determination of the class should generally be held in 27 abeyance until the court has ruled on the class.” 7 Newberg on Class Actions § 22:78 (4th ed.). “This procedure 28 dispenses with unnecessary expenditures of time. If the class is upheld, intervention is generally unnecessary; the representative has been determined to be an adequate representative of all class members and their claims. If the class is dismissed, the absent class members may timely commence another action or intervene at that time.” Id. at § 22:78 n. 5.

“Three factors are considered in determining whether a motion to intervene is timely: ‘(1) the stage of the proceeding at which an applicant seeks to intervene; (2) the prejudice to other parties; and (3) the reason for and length of the delay.’” Harris v. Vector Mktg. Corp., 2010 WL 3743532, at *5 (N.D. Cal. Sep. 17, 2010)(quoting League of United Latin Am. Citizens v. Wilson, 131 F.3d 1297, 1302 (9th Cir. 1997)). “In assessing timeliness of the motion to intervene, the crucial date is when the proposed intervenor should have been aware that its interests would not be adequately protected by the existing parties.” Id. (citing Smith v. Marsh, 194 F.3d 1045, 1052 (9th Cir. 1999)). “[A]ny substantial lapse of time weighs heavily against intervention.” Id. (quoting League of United Latin Am. Citizens, 131 F.3d at 1302).

The first timeliness factor—stage of proceedings—weighs against intervention. “Substantial engagement by the district court with the issues in the case ‘weighs heavily against allowing intervention as of right.’” Smith, 194 F.3d at 1051 (quoting League of United Latin Am. Citizens, 131 F.3d at 1303). “[I]f significant substantive rulings have been made, intervention may not be appropriate.” S. Yuba River Citizens League & Friends of the River v. Nat’l Marine Fisheries Serv., 2007 WL 3034887 (E.D. Cal. Oct. 16, 2007). In Smith, the Ninth Circuit upheld denial of a motion to intervene where the intervenors “were attempting to intervene at a late stage in the proceedings, after significant discovery had taken place and many substantive motions had been adjudicated.” Smith, 194 F.3d at 1050; see also, Harris, 2010 WL 3743532, at *5 (stage of proceeding weighed against intervention where class certification brief was due in a few days and hearing was scheduled one month later). Like in Smith and Harris, the Intervenor are attempting to intervene in this action at a late stage—after Plaintiffs have survived two (2) motions to dismiss, propounded and received substantial discovery, prevailed in a discovery dispute before this Court, taken depositions related to class certification, including Plaintiffs’ depositions, and fully briefed issues related to class certification.

The second timeliness factor—prejudice to other parties—also weighs heavily against intervention. Prejudice to the existing parties is “the most important consideration in deciding whether a motion for intervention is untimely.” United States v. State of Or., 745 F.2d at 552. In

1 Smith, the Ninth Circuit found that the district court properly denied intervention where 2 intervenors “sought to inject new issues and matters . . . thus expanding the scope of the 3 litigation and causing delay.” Smith, 194 F.3d at 1051. Intervenor’s Motion is designed to do just 4 that—prejudice Plaintiffs’ class certification motion and cause delay.

5 Finally, Intervenor’s fail to articulate an acceptable reason for the delay in filing their 6 Motion. “A party seeking to intervene must act as soon as he knows or has reason to know that 7 his interests might be adversely affected by the outcome of the litigation.” United States v. State
8 of Or., 913 F.2d at 589. As detailed above, Intervenor’s knew of this case since at least October, 9 2012. After Judges Spero and Chen denied their Motion to Relate Cases, Intervenor’s took no 10 further action until the present Motion. Intervenor’s cannot show a good reason for delay where 11 “the existing parties have held essentially the same legal positions for the entire duration of the 12 lawsuit.” Natural Res. Def. Council v. Gutierrez, 2007 WL 1518359, at *14 (N.D. Cal. May 22, 13 2007). Like in Gutierrez, “[t]he proposed intervenors fail to show how the existing parties’ 14 positions have changed, such that the proposed intervenors didn’t need to become involved 15 before, . . . but need to do so now.” Id. at *15; see also, Harris, 2010 WL 3743532, at *6 16 (“intervenors failed to act with reasonable diligence in moving to intervene” where “intervenors 17 [knew] of the lawsuit and [knew] of the potential inadequacy of [the named plaintiff] as a class 18 representative” for several months.) Plaintiffs have not materially changed the issues in this case 19 since the original Complaint, and Intervenor’s do not claim otherwise.²³

20 Intervenor’s are really seeking to modify the Court’s scheduling order and add parties 21 after the deadline to do so has passed. As Judge Chen made clear in Harris, “Rule 16 is 22 applicable when a proposed intervenor seeks to intervene.” 2010 WL 3743532, at *1 (collecting 23 cases). This Court applied Rule 16(b) in a similar context in Briggs v. United States, 2009 WL 24 1560005 (N.D. Cal. Jun. 1, 2009). “Once a district court has entered a scheduling order, 25 subsequent amendments are not allowed without leave of the Court, and any such modification 26 must be based on a showing of good cause.” Id.; see also, Fed. R. Civ. P. 16(d)(4) (“[a] schedule

27 _____
28 ²³ Plaintiffs added a new Plaintiff and a new claim earlier this year but alleged the same overarching theories, and their proposed class definition is substantively similar to that alleged in the original complaint.

1 may be modified only for good cause.” “Under Ninth Circuit law, a court focuses on the 2 reasonable diligence of a moving party in deciding whether there is good cause to modify the 3 scheduling order.” Harris, 2010 WL 3743632, at *2 (citing Noyes v. Kelly Servs., 488 F.3d 4 1163, 1174 n. 6 (9th Cir. 2007)). Judge Chen concluded that the intervenors “failed to establish 5 good cause for modification of the Court’s case management order because they, as well as their 6 counsel, did not act with reasonable diligence in filing the motion to intervene,” where they were 7 aware of the potential inadequacy of the representative plaintiff for over a year but waited until 8 just before the plaintiff’s deadline for filing a motion for class certification. Id. at *2–5. The 9 same is true here. Intervenors knew of the pendency of this action since at least October 2012.
10 They knew of the Court’s case management order because they referenced it both in their Motion 11 and in Judge Spero’s Court in the McKenzie case, yet they failed to seek intervention until after 12 Plaintiffs filed their Motion for Class Certification.

13 4. The Lane Plaintiffs Adequately Represent Movants’ Interests

14 Where “existing parties adequately represent [the proposed intervenor’s] interest,” the 15 Court need not permit intervention. Fed. R. Civ. P. 24(a)(2). “In evaluating the adequacy of 16 representation, courts in the Ninth Circuit consider three factors: ‘(1) whether the interest of a 17 present party is such that it will undoubtedly make all of a proposed intervenor’s arguments; (2) 18 whether the present party is capable and willing to make such arguments; and (3) whether a 19 proposed intervenor would offer any necessary elements to the proceeding that other parties 20 would neglect.’” Ctr. for Biological Diversity, 2013 WL 1729573, at *6 (quoting Citizens for 21 Balanced Use v. Mont. Wilderness Ass’n, 647 F.3d 893, 898 (9th Cir. 2011)). “‘The ‘most 22 important factor’ to determine whether a proposed intervenor is adequately represented by a 23 present party to the action is ‘how the [intervenor’s] interest compares with the interests of the 24 existing party.’” Id. (alterations in original)(quoting Perry v. Proposition 8 Proponents, 587 F.3d 25 947, 950 (9th Cir. 2009)). “‘Where the party and the proposed intervenor share the same 26 ‘ultimate objective,’ a presumption of adequacy of representation applies, and the intervenor can 27 rebut that presumption only with a ‘compelling showing’ to the contrary.’” Id. (quoting Perry,

1 587 F.3d at 951); accord In re Charles Schwab Corp. Sec. Litig., 2011 WL 633308 (N.D. Cal.
 2 Feb. 11, 2011)(Alsup J.)("When a proposed intervenor . . . has vested [his] claim for 3 intervention entirely upon a disagreement over litigation strategy or legal tactics, courts have 4 been hesitant to accord the applicant full-party status.")(quoting League of United Latin Am.
 5 Citizens, 131 F.3d at 1306).

6 The Lane Plaintiffs will adequately protect Intervenors' interests because, as admitted by 7 the Movants in their Motion to Relate cases, they share the same "ultimate objective" as the 8 McKenzie and Morris plaintiffs with respect to the flood insurance claims. McKenzie Dkt. No.
 9 69, Motion to Relate Cases. The only major difference—one that Intervenors neglect to 10 mention—is that Lane involves both flood and hazard insurance claims, whereas McKenzie and 11 Morris only involve flood insurance claims. Thus, while McKenzie and Morris comprise only 12 10% of the Lane claims and could not possibly protect the Lanes or the class they seek to 13 represent, they are wholly protected by the Lane Plaintiffs' claims.

14 Intervenors' Motion focuses of Plaintiffs' attorneys and attacks their adequacy. Mot. at 15 21. This is not the proper standard.²⁴ Intervenors present no argument that the parties in Lane 16 will not adequately protect their interests. Nor could they. Intervenors' Motion claims, in a 17 footnote, that the Lane Plaintiffs' counsel are inadequate because "Movants and their counsel 18 have asserted claims against WFI and WFB, have developed a full record on which to move for 19 class certification, and have acted in the best interests of the class members at all times." Mot. at 20 21 n.15. Inclusion of WFI is a litigation strategy—counsel in Lane considered and decided 21 against naming WFI as a party.²⁵ See page 2, n.3, supra. "[D]ifferences in litigation strategy do

22 _____
 23 ²⁴ Widjaja v. YUM! Brands, Inc., 2009 WL 3462040 (E.D. Cal. Oct. 22, 2009), the only case cited by Intervenors in 24 support of their "inadequacy of attorneys" argument, does not support this argument. Although Widjaja did allow 25 intervention, the decision did not address the adequacy of the plaintiffs' attorneys at all. The Widjaja court 26 transferred a later-filed case after finding that a case management order in a first-filed action required consolidation.

27 ²⁵ WFI is not a necessary party for establishing any of the Plaintiffs' claims. As alleged in Plaintiffs FAC, the 28 majority of the commissions WFI collects are remitted to WFB in the form of "soft dollar transactions." FAC ¶¶ 36, 53, 152. And monies paid to a third party (here, WFI) give rise to a claim for restitution against a separate defendant (here, WFB), where that defendant's "unlawful business practice caused the plaintiff to pay that money." See, Troyk
v. Farmers Group, Inc., 171 Cal.App.4th 1305, 1338 (2009); Ferrington v. McAfee, Inc., 2010 WL 3910169, at *7–8 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 5, 2010)."

1 not normally justify intervention.” Arakaki, 324 F.3d at 1086. Intervenors’ other claims are 2 inaccurate, for the reasons stated above. See Sections II(A)-(C), II(F), supra.

3 C. Permissive Intervention is Also Improper

4 Rule 24(b), which governs permissive intervention, provides that “[o]n a timely motion, 5 the court may permit anyone to intervene who has a claim or defense that shares with the main 6 action a common question of law or fact.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 24(b)(1)(B). “Under Rule 24(b), a 7 district court may grant permissive intervention where the applicant demonstrates ‘(1) an 8 independent ground for jurisdiction; (2) a timely motion; and (3) a common question of law and 9 fact between the movant’s claim or defense and the main action.’” Golden Eagle, 2013 WL 10 594283 (quoting Freedom from Religion Found., Inc. v. Geithner, 644 F.3d 836, 843 (9th 11 Cir.2011). “Even if an applicant satisfies those requirements, the district court has discretion to 12 deny permissive intervention.” Donnelly v. Glickman, 159 F.3d 405, 412 (9th Cir.1998).

13 “In exercising its discretion, a court ‘must consider whether the intervention will unduly 14 delay or prejudice the adjudication of the original parties’ rights.’” Tech. & Intellectual Prop.
15 Strategies Grp. PC v. Insperty, Inc., 2012 WL 6001098 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 29, 2012)(quoting Fed.
16 R. Civ. P. 24(b)(3)). “Where intervention would undermine the efficiency of the litigation 17 process, a petition for permissive intervention may be denied.” Golden Eagle Ins. Corp., 2013 18 WL 594283 (citing United States v. Washington, 86 F.3d 1499, 1504 (9th Cir.1996)). The Court 19 may consider a number of factors, including: “the nature and extent of the intervenors’ interest, 20 their standing to raise relevant legal issues, the legal position they seek to advance, and its 21 probable relation to the merits of the case[,] . . . whether the intervenors’ interests are adequately 22 represented by other parties, whether intervention will prolong or unduly delay the litigation, and 23 whether parties seeking intervention will significantly contribute to full development of the 24 underlying factual issues in the suit and to the just and equitable adjudication of the legal 25 questions presented.” Spangler v. Pasadena City Bd. of Education, 552 F.2d 1326, 1329 (9th Cir.
26 1977). None of these factors support intervention. The Morris and McKenzie plaintiffs only have 27 standing to raise approximately 10% of the claims asserted in Lane; in contrast, the Lane 28

1 Plaintiffs adequately protect all interests asserted by Intervenor (except the financial interests of 2 Intervenor’s attorneys, of course); and intervention will only prejudice the existing parties and 3 delay full resolution of this case.

4 “For both intervention by right and permissive intervention, an intervening party must 5 show that the applicant’s interest is inadequately represented by the parties to the action.” James 6 Ambrose Johnson, Jr. 1999 Trust v. UMG Recordings, 2011 WL 5192476 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 1, 7 2011))(citing Wilderness Soc’y v. United States Forest Serv., 630 F.3d 1173, 1177 (9th Cir.
 8 2011)(en banc)(intervention as of right); Spangler, 552 F.2d at 1329 (permissive intervention)).
 9 Where the applicant “asserts claims ‘parallel’ to those already pending before the Court, [the 10 applicant’s] interests are already represented” in the present litigation. Id.; see also, Bergman v.
 11 Thelen LLP, 2009 WL 1308019, at *3 (N.D. Cal. May 11, 2009)(“intervention would serve no 12 purpose here because Applicants are already class members. . . . [P]ermitting members of 13 existing classes to intervene in order to assert the same claims would be pointless.”); Perry, 587 14 F.3d at 955 (where the intervenor’s “interests are indistinguishable, . . . [i]t was well within the 15 district court’s discretion to find that the delay occasioned by intervention outweighed the value 16 added by [the intervenor’s] participation in the suit.”)

17 “In the context of permissive intervention, [courts] analyze the timeliness element more 18 strictly than . . . with intervention as of right.” League of United Latin Am. Citizens v. Wilson, 19 131 F.3d 1297, 1308 (9th Cir. 1997) (citing United States v. State of Or., 745 F.2d at 552. Thus, 20 “[a] finding that the motion for intervention as of right was not filed timely defeats a motion for 21 permissive intervention.” U.S. E.E.O.C. v. ABM Indus. Inc., 2010 WL 744714, at *7 (E.D. Cal.
 22 Mar. 3, 2010)(citing League of United Latin Am. Citizens, 131 F.3d at 1308). For the reasons 23 stated in Section III(B), supra, Intervenor’s motion is untimely.

24 D. Movants’ Request to Stay Class Certification Proceedings in this Case on the 25 Basis of the First-to-File Rule at the Eleventh Hour is Improper

26 As an alternative argument—if they fail at their attempt to intervene—Movants argue that 27 this Court should stay all class certification issues in this case indefinitely until they get a class 28 certification ruling in both of their other cases. “The first-to-file rule is one grounded in judicial

1 discretion. It is not a ‘rigid or inflexible rule to be mechanically applied, but rather is to be 2 applied with a view to the dictates of sound judicial administration.’ Dubee, 2010 WL 3323808
 3 (quoting Pacesetter Sys., Inc. v. Medtronic, Inc., 678 F.2d 93, 95 (9th Cir. 1992)). The relevant 4 factors are equitable in nature. Id. (citing Kerotest Mfg. Co. v. C-O-Two Fire Equip. Co., 342 5 U.S. 180, 183 (1952)). These factors are: (1) the chronology of the two actions; (2) the similarity 6 of the parties; and (3) the similarity of issues. Id. The first-filed rule applies where there is 7 “substantial overlap” between the actions. PETA, Inc. v. Beyond the Frame, LTD., 2011 WL 8 686158 (C.D. Cal. 2011). In a class action, the classes, and not the class representatives, are 9 compared. Ross v. U.S. Nat’l Ass’n, 542 F. Supp. 2d 1014, 1020 (N.D. Cal. 2008). The rule is not 10 applied, however, in cases involving bad faith or forum shopping. Greenline Indus., Inc. v. Agri- 11 Process Innovations, Inc., 2008 WL 2951743 at *3 (N.D. CA 2008)(citing Alltrade, Inc., 946 12 F.2d at 628). Movants fail to show how the first-filed rule applies here.

13 1. The Parties and Issues in the Cases are not “Substantially Similar”
 14 and do not “Substantially Overlap.”

15 The classes and claims in Morris and McKenzie do not “substantially overlap” with the 16 classes and claims asserted in this case. See, PETA, Inc., 2011 WL 686158; see also, Centocor, 17 Inc. v. Medimmune, Inc., 2002 WL31465299 at *3 (N.D. Cal. 2002)(“core issues” must 18 “substantially overlap.”) In McKenzie and Morris, Movants pursue class certification of claims 19 related to force-placed flood insurance only and thus do not involve or include approximately 20 90% of the class members that Plaintiffs in this case seek to represent. The relevant definition of 21 “substantial” is “being largely but not wholly that which is specified.” http://www.merriam- 22 webster.com/dictionary/substantial. This case is not “largely” about flood insurance.

23 Movants have also taken inconsistent opinions on these same issues in different judicial 24 forums. Whereas here they claim that the Lane hazard and flood insurance case is substantially 25 similar to the McKenzie and Morris flood insurance cases, in a brief filed with the Judicial Panel 26 on Multidistrict Litigation on August 6, 2012, the Morris counsel opposed MDL centralization of 27 all force-placed flood and hazard insurance in one federal district because “it improperly lumps 28 flood insurance cases together with hazard insurance cases.” Exhibit 6, Plaintiff Desiree

1 Morris’s Mem. of Law in Opp. to Movants’ Am. Motion for Transfer, at 7. Movants’ counsel 2 stated, in bold letters, underlined: If there is one thing on which everyone agrees, it is that 3 flood insurance is different than hazard insurance.²⁶ Id. (emphasis in original). These same 4 attorneys now change positions entirely, seeking to have this Court stay its proceedings 5 regarding both hazard and flood LPI because the Lane hazard and flood claims “substantially 6 overlap” with the Morris flood claims.

7 Judge Chen, in Cannon, Case No. 3:12-cv-1376, also agreed that this case (and Cannon) 8 do not “substantially overlap” with McKenzie when he refused to relate these cases. Dkt. No. 20.
 9 Judge Chen’s decision is highly instructive here, because Cannon is a flood-only case, and, as 10 such, is more similar to McKenzie than this case. Movants have not filed anything in Cannon 11 seeking to either intervene or stay based on the first-filed rule.

12 2. Relief Based on the First-Filed Rule was not “Promptly Brought to 13 the Attention of the District Court.”

14 Movants were aware that this action was pending no later than October 22, 2012, when 15 they sought to have Judges Chen and Spero relate Lane, McKenzie, and Cannon. However, they 16 waited seven months, until Plaintiffs defended and prevailed on two motions to dismiss, engaged 17 in substantial discovery, attended several hearings (including a discovery hearing where 18 Plaintiffs prevailed), took depositions in Minneapolis, Atlanta, and Washington D.C., reviewed 19 documents and depositions from other cases, and fully briefed their class certification motion.
 20 Decl. of Steve Owings, ¶ 13. “If [Movants] are correct that [the first-to-file] rule was implicated 21 in this case, then they have no excuse for not seeking [relief] as soon as they became aware of 22 this action.” Lane v. Facebook, 2009 WL 3458198 at *3, n 7. See also, Church of Scientology of 23 Cal. v. U.S. Dep’t of the Army, 611 F.2d 738, 750 (9th Cir. 1979)(first-filed rule should be 24 “brought promptly to the attention of the district court”); PETA, Inc., 2011 WL 686158, at *1; 25 Intersearch Worldwide, LTD v. Intersearch Group, Inc., 544 F. Supp. 2d 949, 957 (N.D. Cal.
 26 2008).

27 ²⁶ Movants’ August 6, 2012 brief filed with the JPML goes on to argue as to why there are “significant variations in 28 the issues, facts, and claims among the cases.” Id. at 11. They argue that consolidation of the cases would be “inappropriate” “even on a bank by bank basis.” Id.

1 3. Movants Seek to Use the First-Filed Rule for an Improper Purpose

2 Movants attempt to pervert the purpose of the first-to-file rule. The purpose of the first-3 filed rule is to preserve the jurisdiction of the court in the first-filed action. Movants have not 4 done this. They have filed no motion in the first-filed action—Morris in the Western District of 5 Pennsylvania. Nor have they filed motions in any other Wells Fargo LPI case other than this one.
6 Instead, plaintiffs’ attorneys in Morris and McKenzie have joined forces in an attempt to 7 “squeeze” their Morris case (where no class certification motion is pending) into the McKenzie
8 case in this District (where the plaintiffs filed a class certification motion six days ago). Then, 9 Movants filed the present motion seeking to have this Court stay class certification proceedings.
10 This is forum-shopping. See Greenline Indus., Inc., 2008 WL 2951743 at *3 (first-filed rule does 11 not apply to allow forum-shopping).

12 4. The First-Filed Rule is Not Appropriate at this Procedural Stage

13 When a “later filed action has progressed further, efficiency considerations disfavor 14 application of the rule.” Guthy-Renker Fitness, L.L.C. v. Icon Health & Fitness, Inc., 179 F.R.D.
15 264, 270 (C.D. Cal. 1998)(citing Church of Scientology, 611 F.2d at 750). Here, the parties have 16 conducted all discovery related to class certification, fully briefed all class certification issues, 17 and have scheduled the class certification hearing in two weeks. In Morris, no class certification 18 motion is pending more than two years after the case was filed. McKenzie is not subject to the 19 first-filed rule because (1) it is not a first-filed case, (2) it did not adequately allege kickbacks 20 until November 29, 2012, and (3) it is pending in the same district as this case.²⁷ The McKenzie 21 plaintiffs dawdled for a year and a half before filing their motion for class certification just six 22 (6) days ago. It appears as though the McKenzie plaintiffs did not conduct their own discovery in 23 connection with class certification, instead recently enlisting counsel from Morris and importing 24 the discovery from Morris into McKenzie. Thus, even if the first-filed rule applies here, the 25 interests of the parties and the Classes would be best served by the Court exercising its discretion 26

27 ²⁷ The proper remedy for similar cases filed within the same federal district is a motion to relate cases. The 28 McKenzie plaintiffs have already filed such a motion, which was denied by two (2) judges in this District.

1 by not staying this action.

2 Movants criticize Plaintiffs for acting in haste, calling Plaintiffs' compliance with this 3 Court's scheduling order "an effort to leapfrog this case." Mot. at 21. Movants also criticize 4 Plaintiffs for filing prompt class certification motions in cases in the Middle District of Florida 5 where the local rules provide that the motion should be filed within ninety (90) days of filing the 6 case. M.D. Fla. L.R. 4.04(b).²⁸ This Court, the courts in the Middle District of Florida, and 7 Plaintiffs are merely following the plain language of Rule 23, which provides that "[a]t an early 8 practicable time after a person sues or is sued as a class representative, the court must determine 9 by order whether to certify the action as a class action." Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(c)(1)(A).

10 On May 7, 2013, Judge Spero told the McKenzie plaintiffs that he was awaiting this 11 Court's ruling on class certification before holding the next case management conference. Decl.
 12 of Sheri Kelly, ¶ 5. Yet Movants ask this Court for a stay of indefinite duration. This would not 13 be fair to the Class Members or the individual Plaintiffs in this case. "A stay should not be 14 granted unless it appears likely the other proceedings will be concluded within a reasonable time 15 in relation to the urgency of the claims presented to the court." Leyva v. Certified Grocers of 16 California, Ltd., 593 F.2d 857, 864 (9th Cir. 1979). A stay should not be granted in favor of the 17 McKenzie case because it is not the first-filed action, and both Judges Chen and Spero have 18 already ruled that it is not a related case.

19 IV. CONCLUSION

20 For the foregoing reasons, this Court should deny Movants' Motion to Intervene.
